9. [] In response to his request, met with William Ashworth, Arms Control, International Law and Organization Subcommittee staff, Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who told me that the Subcommittee is gearing up for hearings on test ban but as yet is only in the preliminary draft stages. He asked if it would be possible to inquire informally concerning the Soviet and Chinese developments in strategic weapons not as a matter of briefing at this time but as a matter of guidance for possible future hearings whether such developments have continued apace. I told Ashworth I would take an informal reading and talk to him later in the week. Carl Duckett, DDS&T, has been advised.
